Wyoming Water Library

Staffed with a Water Librarian, this comprehensive collection of almost 21,000 documents is an exceptional resource for individuals desiring more in-depth information on the State's water resources. The collection includes a variety of government documents, maps, videos and water institute publications. Specific agencies and institutions represented in the collection include the Wyoming Water Development Commission, Wyoming State Engineer's Office, US Geological Survey, Bureau of Reclamation, Bureau of Land Management and University of Wyoming. Although all 50 states are represented in the Collection, our focus is Wyoming water. Other materials in the library cover drought, global climate change, the Wyoming State Water Plan Program, and environmental impacts. We also offer a water-specific reference collection.

References

The library houses a reference collection that includes a range of atlases, dictionaries, manuals, and handbooks for in-house use. WWDC River Basin Plans are also available online and in hardcopy (<http://library.wrds.uwyo.edu/rsshelf.html>).

Searching the Library

You can explore the entire WRDS Library Catalog using the search functions located on our homepage (see lower left on sidebar menu). The WRDS Library is linked to the statewide WYLD CAT system, providing a powerful tool for locating documents from state and federal agencies, as well as for locating water-related research done at the University of Wyoming.
